Demi Moore was the first to debut this cerulean blue silk halter dress ($1,800) when she attended launch of Trump International Hotel and Tower Dubai on June 23, 2008. The age-defying actress accessorized with a black clutch and gold peep-toes.

More than half a year later, Emily VanCamp was sporting the same dress at the InStyle/Warner Bros. Golden Globes After Party on January 11, 2009. Emily finished her look with simple and elegant black peep-toe pumps.

On March 20, 2009 Bijou Phillips attended the New York Times Fashion Week Photo Diary by Eric Ray Davidson and wore the same Zac Posen dress in a yellow shade.

Gretta Monahan opted for yet another hue when she strut the red carpet at Bravo's 2nd Annual A-List Awards on April 5, 2009 in Los Angeles wearing the same ruffled Zac Posen dress in emerald green. Gretta completed her look with stunning iridescent Brian Atwood Margie peep-toe sandals ($660) and a mint green Alexander McQueen box clutch..

I prefer the dress itself in cobalt blue, but I like Gretta Monahan's overall look most because of her adorable shoes. Who's your favorite?
